

College Nine's iFloor

A unique living and learning community that supports residents to become active and engaged global citizens

College Nine, founded in 2000, is one of UCSC's newest colleges. The theme of the college, International and Global Perspectives, recognizes the importance of cultural competency in the 21st century. College Nine offers students opportunities to explore issues around this theme and develop leadership skills that can make a positive difference in the world.

The iFloor (International Floor) is a residence hall community at College Nine where first-year international and US students live together. The vibrant iFloor environment provides many chances for residents to learn across cultures and become more globally minded while making meaningful, lifelong connections with a diverse range of students.

What does it take to live on the iFloor?

- A sincere desire to learn about different cultures through peer to peer interaction and community activities.
- A willingness to build friendships by getting to know people on your floor and participating in programs that advance intercultural understanding.

» In order to be selected for iFloor, students will need to choose College Nine when accepting the offer of admission at my.ucsc.edu

» Later, when you apply for housing and choose iFloor, you will be asked some supplemental questions that will help to demonstrate your interest and ability to actively contribute to this community.

The iFloor is a great first year opportunity, which paves the way for residence at the International Living Center (ILC) in the future. The ILC is a community for upper division international and US students located in the College Nine apartments.
